Rupp's Contract For 1-Year's Term Remains Unsigned

Coach Adolph Rupp has not yet signed the new contract which was offered to him at the meeting of the Athletic council Friday afternoon in the office of Chet Wynne, new director of athletics. The contract calls for the services of Rupp as head basketball coach for one year at an increase of salary which was not announced.

The council announced that it would offer only one year contracts in the future, sighting the fact that faculty members were given contracts annually. The new ruling will not effect the contracts which are already in force for members of the athletic department.

Coach Rupp had asked for a three year contract but he is expected to sign the document as it stands within the next few days. In the meantime, he is continuing with spring practice which will last about two weeks longer.

Alumnus Speaks At Convocation

Doctor Gordon, who is an alumnus of the College of Agriculture and one of Kentucky's outstanding ministers, was introduced by Pres. Frank L. McVey.

CATS DEFEATED BY MISS. STATE

Both Southern Contests Are Lost by Devereaux Men;
First Game by a 9-7 Count,
Final May 11 to 4

Apparently suffering from stage fright and a case of "butter-fingers," and lacking the punch of an experienced ball club, the new Wildcat baseball team was initiated into the 1934 baseball season by being defeated twice in a two-game series by the Mississippi State college nine last Friday and Saturday at Starks, Miss., by the scores of 9 to 7, and 11 to 4.

In the first game, home runs were the cause of the Cats' defeat, and in the second fracas, the tendency to "boot" the ball led to disaster. Although hitting with the same power as that of the Mississippi boys, the Big Blue team lacked their headiness and experience.

With one man on in the first inning of the first game, Jess Haley stepped to the plate and cracked one of Broadbent's fast balls over the left field fence for a home run. Later in the game Gerald Cooper duplicated this performance.

Coming to bat in the first half of the ninth inning of this game, and with one down, the Wildcats started a rally and cracked out five hits that scored four runs, but Bolton, pitching great ball for the Mississippi staters, forced Mattingly to foul out, and then struck out DeMoisey.

In the second game of this series with DeMoisey and Bolton on the mound both teams went hitless till an eventful fifth inning, when each team uncorked a barrage of hits that scored five runs for Mississippi and four for Kentucky. Mississippi came back in the sixth and scored five more and then added another in the seventh.

Tony Simone, the Wildcat's diminutive relief hurler, succeeded DeMoisey in the sixth, but was taken out when Bolton crashed a double against the fence. Bill Greathouse went in as relief pitcher and was touched for two hits before he retired the side.

The Wildcat's next game will be played here Saturday against Eastern State Normal college at Epping's park.

Y Social Group Plans Study Trip

The Social Service group of the YWCA will meet at 3 p. m. Wednesday in the Women's building. A trip will be taken to the Family Welfare society in order to study the welfare work which is done there. Rebecca Dudley will lead the group, and all girls who are interested are invited to go.

Mrs. Dudley South, well known Lexington soprano, will sing at the Dutch Lunch club at their regular meeting Friday noon in Patterson hall. Girls who were not at the last meeting are asked to give their names to Augusta Roberts in the Women's building by Thursday noon.

'Art of A City' Is Exhibit Title Now on Display

Art Center Is Site of Paintings
by Well-Known
Cleveland Artists

"The Art of a City" is the title of the exhibition of paintings being shown at the Art Center. The showing will extend through April 25.

It is an exhibition of paintings representing four different groups working in the city of Cleveland, Ohio. These groups, having on display six paintings each, are: professional artists; laymen, with painting as an avocation; art students, and school children.

The professional group includes well known Cleveland artists whose works have been recognized and acclaimed.

In the sense that they have not followed art as a career, but have had only incidental instruction, the laymen group has enjoyed much success. Of particular note in this group are the pictures "After the Fire" by Joseph Booris, "Tulips" by Eleanor H. Bates, and "Boats on the Cuyahoga" by Thomas Clough.

This exhibition showing "The Art of a City" is circulated by the American Federation of Arts, a national organization for the cultivation of the arts, with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Work Begins On Patterson Memorial

The ground has been broken for the foundation of the bronze statue of James Kennedy Patterson, president of the University of Kentucky from 1869 to 1910. The statue, which will be placed in the quadrangle between the Administration building and the Museum, is being modeled by Col. Augustus Lukeman, a Kentucky colonel of New York.

This memorial is the result of a campaign which has lasted for at least 12 years and is being financed entirely by private donations of friends of Doctor Patterson at a cost of approximately $20,000.

It is planned to have the memorial completed before the June commencement exercises take place.

LET'S DO OUR PART!

AN EDITORIAL

Fellow students, do you want a Student Union building? If so, the first step you can take toward getting it is signing the petition now being circulated on the campus indicating that you would be willing to pay an additional $2 each semester for the use of the building, which fee would be applied on the debt incurred in constructing it.

This petition will be presented to the board of trustees to indicate that the student body wants such a building sufficiently to be willing to do its part toward financing it. It is then up to the board to take action upon the matter.

Application will be made to the Public Works Administration for a loan of approximately $350,000 for the purpose of erecting and furnishing the building. At least 30 per cent (and a bill is now pending to make this percentage greater) will be an outright gift. The remainder will be paid over a period of 30 years by setting aside the earnings of the building and the $2 fees.

The state cannot be asked to finance the structure. It is to be YOUR building and it must be procured through YOUR efforts! The Student Union building will provide a meeting place for students, a ball room, rest rooms, a place to eat, offices for student organizations, a place to study, locker rooms, and other facilities.

It is quite apparent that it will be a tremendous addition to student life on the campus. We should be willing, therefore, to sacrifice a little to obtain it. And after all, when we think of tuition we think in terms of $50—why not $49 then instead of $47, when by paying this additional small amount we can aid the University and ourselves to such a great extent?

Let's vote for a Student Union building by signing the petition. Let's do our part!

HE DIDN'T KNOW THAT!!

The following account may be taken as evidence that the University is not going to the dogs. The rabbits are taking it.

Several days ago a rabbit was seen to scamper hurriedly from the administration offices toward the science building. Perhaps he was scientifically minded, but he should have known better. Animals are dissected in that building.

IS FLAMING YOUTH FLAMING?

What effect has repeal of the 18th amendment had upon the youth of today? With its abrogation from the United States' constitution, a serious question, one which might transform young America mentally, morally, and physically, has been presented. How has our so-called "flaming youth" responded to a new, unrestricted liberty?

Were one to heed the warnings of moralists, preachers, reformers, and ministers, one would shrink with horror from the picture which they paint, a picture of open saloons, debauchery, and immorality. If such conditions were expected to result from repeal of prohibition, one might reasonably do so. It is our contention that, although the return of liquor was inevitable, there never shall again exist conditions comparable to those of the "gay nineties" of our fathers' day.

We base our stand upon the integrity and foresight evinced by our modern civilization, a generation having as its guiding lights, tolerance and intelligence. Young America is serious in its intentions, made so by the sobering influence of two prodigious calamities, the World War, and the depression.

So much for the capabilities of modern youth to cope with a new and possibly dangerous situation. And now, let us turn our attention for a moment to a consideration of the actuating agent itself, and its dispensation.

Liquor, as it appeared before prohibition was repealed, might have been classed as good, bad, and worse. Prescription whiskey was too high in price for the average person, and its distribution was made at the fancy of our doctors; bootleg whiskey, as racketeered on a large scale, consisted of synthesized alcohol, water, and a "kick," could be procured at a nearby speak-easy; "rot-gut" whiskey was, as the odiously descriptive name implies, a concoction of undetermined formula, guaranteed to blind, kill, or paralyze, and could be obtained from independent retailers.

Legal whiskey is manufactured under government supervision; it is pure; taxes levied upon it send enormous sums of money into the coffers of the United States treasury. Thousands of men are being employed in it manufacture and distribution. Racketeering and bootlegging are being wiped out. A feeling of guilt and cowardice has been banished.

Food, or even water, if taken in excessive amounts, may prove to be harmful; likewise, liquor, even though it is free from contamination, may do bodily harm. Tolerance, which must be exercised in all things, is one of the outstanding characteristics of our youth of today.

We believe, therefore, that the return of liquor will not be detrimental to the progress of "flaming youth."

NEW ATHLETIC CONTRACTS

Planned so as, to make the terms of all coaches expire at the same time, a new policy of one-year contracts for all men employed in the Athletic department as coaches has been put into effect by the Athletic council with the drawing up of a new contract for Coach Adolph Rupp, head basketball mentor.

Whether this policy is better than the old method is yet to be seen, and a plausible illustration of what might happen under it seems in line. Let us suppose that prospects for a winning team in any sport are none too bright for the next season. Since the contract of the coach in that sport expires at the end of the year, he is at liberty to "run out" on the University to save his reputation as a coach, whereas this would not be possible should the contract be for a longer period.

Prospects are not expected to be gloomy for the coming season; let us hope that this bright outlook will be a reality and not just a mirage. The men now employed as coaches are not the kind to desert their posts, when things look bad, but is it not possible that in future years, since better offers may lure them to other institutions, that the same high type men will not be employed?

The above cited possibility under the new system probably is outweighed by merits, one of which is the ability to dismiss a coach who has proved unsatisfactory within a short time without necessarily holding him on as a result of a two, three, four or five year agreement. This is one of the greatest of the merits.

In installing the new policy, contracts in force were changed with the exception of that of Chet Wynne, head football coach and newly-appointed athletic director of the University; at the end of his present contract, any offered him in the future will be for a one year period. The contract of Coach Rupp, which expired this year, has been renewed with a one year contract and a raise in salary. Coach Rupp asked for a three year agreement.

The workability of the new policy to an advantage is to be questioned, but any attempt to better conditions is welcomed.

JEST AMONG US

Is it just our imagination, or do the motorcycle cops really have a disappointed look on their faces when we do manage to stop at red lights?

Hero worship is on a new high plane now, with Rudolph Valentino and Bing Crosby being replaced by Joe Penner and Popeye, the sailor.

PETITE PIECE

By LORRAINE LEPERE

One of the current magazines carries an article on how the backward girl can be popular and can arouse the interest of male creatures around her. Every wall flower sit up and take notice! If you're at a party, the writer says, and you don't know how to get to take you home, make a few diplomatic statements so as to find out which of the boys have cars and then ask one of them for a nickel to call a taxi and see what happens. If he takes you home, you invite him in to smoke a cigarette. Then you strike some interesting poses against the fireplace or the grand piano and sit at his feet on a cushion. When he leaves you, offer him your hand to kiss because, as the author expresses it, it makes you seem so obtainable. If you master all this line, you should have gleaming teeth and a beautiful smile, make all your own clothes and speak to the waiter in perfect French.

If you like musical comedy, you can't afford to miss the Stroller revue, "Hit the Deck." Even without the music, it is a most laughable and enjoyable play, for the lines are well written in true navy style. And with a boys' and girls' chorus and singing thrown in, it's going to be something for Jake to write to the folks in Paintsville about.

They do say that the scandal section of the Kentuckian will make ladies weep and strong men shudder. It is, they tell me, what the Kampus Kat should have been. And the person who's writing most of it hasn't been caught yet.

One of the most amusing things about campus life is the way some fraternities and sororities trade dates. I know a little girl who started out with a date with one of the southern gentlemen and dates half the chapter now. I suppose it works both ways too, since I noticed a rather suggestive remark about the "West Pointer" in last week's scandal column.

I'm in favor of more and better spring weather. This up and down stuff has got me going to too many classes. But it saves gasoline, as I said before, and you got to give the school a break, according to current student opinion. Sour grapes!

SCANDAL SNICKERINGS

By SNOB SISTER

Folks, here's our attempt at dishing the dirt. We hope that you'll dislike it so much it will be popular!

The outstanding ed of the week is ATO Bill Daniel who deserves the title of the champion beerer...who did consume 14 glasses of beer the other night...count it up for yourself...it's more than a gallon!

'Tis rumored that Sigmachi Bill Dawson has been going with two ettes...Chio plegdette Jane Goodman and Kappa Nell Craik...the former, it is rumored is "The" girl for Bill...but the other night when Bill's brain was stimulated he pinned the latter...Funny ain't it...Or is it so funny Bill?

The outstanding pinning of the week is that of Kappasig Charley Woodbridge and Kaydee Mary Carolyn Terrell.

We wonder if Sigmachi pledge George Archer ever got all the black shoe polish off that Dutch Kreuter painted on him a few days ago...what was the sensation when you awakened and found a lily in your hand George?

'Tis rumored that Sigeep Johnny Dorsey got a good blistering from the boys at the house the other night for his "brush-cut"...we wonder what Mary Edith thinks of it Johnny!

Triangle Hamilton Greenup was passing out cigars the other night at the frat house...it seems that he finally persuaded Alphonse Margaret Scottow to accept his pin during Easter vacation.

Alphonse Nancy Alverson was finally chosen by Triangle Larry Riley as his pin...looks as if the Triangles and Alphonse chapters are ONE.

Kaydee Phyllis Caskey and Phitau Claude Terrell were in a wreck...Phyllis was thrown on the floor of the car when she raised up and gave one of the occupants (uninjured) a black eye!

Elma Quarles (pronounced quarrels) and Lambdachi Ralph Salyers are no longer pinned...can you guess...from the name?

Mary Lou Jackson, Bull Durham courtnee broke the Sigeep's heart the other Sunday pitching pennies against the wall at the frat house.

To see Ralph Kercheval, better known as "Kerchy," and SAE Gene Bryant at a "famous" night club Saturday night...We wonder how much money you won "Kerchy"...or did you lose?

Who was the ed that failed to show up for the Lances pledging, the night of the Prom?

Tridelt Ann Kraft and a Sigmachi were pinned during Christmas, but decided that it wasn't worth it, and called it quits...so now she's in the market for a new love...looks as if it will be an SAE too!

We did see Independent Virginia Robinson and a freshman ed strolling in the Botanical Gardens...it could be love!

What popular KA ed climbed the fire escape of Boyd hall the other night and lo!...the fire bell rang! He merely wanted to attract the attention of his date so she could return his forgotten pipe which he, in his hurry had left...needless to say that he attracted the attention of both halls.

"There are ways and means of getting out of a jam," according to Tridelt Dot Whitsit...it seems that she is being steadied...and thinking variety is the spice of life, she gives a date to someone else for the Phi-

LITERARY

Conducted by DOROTHY WHALEN

One of the best plays ever given by the Guignol was last week's play, "The Animal Kingdom," written by Philip Barry. There were so many outstanding performances among our home talent that it is difficult to point out one certain personage as being the best. The actress with than any other is Mrs. William Pettit (Dunster Foster Pettit) who plays the part of Daisy Sage. I venture to say that Mrs. Pettit has given to the little theater goers one of the most enjoyable performances that they have ever seen. The portrayal of Daisy Sage is quite a ticklish job in order that the audience may not misunderstand and gain the wrong impression of her. Mrs. Pettit was quite superb in handling her part; it is a striking coincidence that Mrs. Pettit should resemble so distinctly Ann Harding who played the part of Daisy Sage in the movies.

Marjorie Powell shares honors with Dunster Foster Pettit. Miss Powell is a lovely creature who really lives in the character of Cecilia Henry, a beautiful, devastating, money-mad society girl. Even when we realize that she is a heartless girl who cares only for money and prestige, we admire her strategy and secretly applaud her courage and faith that she has in her beauty. Myrna Loy portrayed Cecilia Henry in motion pictures.

The man in the eternal triangle is played by Frank Fowler, incidentally the producer of the play for the Guignol, who has, as usual, chalked up another victory in the little theater. The man in question in the play is Tom Collier, a rather care-free young fellow who likes the printing business and everything connected with it. Tom is a likeable sort of chap and exasperates his father by his too apparent amiability. His father, Rufus Collier (L. L. Dantzier) is a gruff but well-meaning old gentleman who just can't understand his son. Professor Dantzier treats the character of Rufus Collier like a veteran and he completely dominates the audience by his magnetic personality.

Ollie Williamson has given everyone quite an agreeable surprise by his characterization of Richard Reagan, Tom Collier's butler. The humorous elements in the play rest entirely upon Reagan and Grace Macomber, a society friend of Cecilia's. Reagan is the type of man who likes for his boss to treat him as a brother and not as a servant; he is also a prize fighter, which makes his actions all the more comical. Grace Macomber is played by Virginia Druce Boyd who is the typical society woman who is continually angling for individual and unique personages for her Sunday morning breakfasts.

Owen Arthur, who is in love with Cecilia, is played by Howard Smathers. The part is a weak one but is made prominent by the marvelous acting ability of Howard Smathers. Franc Schmidt, a German violinist, is played by Eva May Nunnell; Joe Fisk, a writer, is portrayed by Robert Shannon. Both are promising young players and we may expect more from them in the future. The little theater is an asset to the cultural life of the University. Why not make it a point in your social calendar to spend one evening each week of real enjoyment?

Full of tears and warm is an old friendship.

That asks no longer deeds of gallantry, Or any deed at all—save that the friend shall be Alive and breathing somewhere, like a song.

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By JAY LUCIAN

We were somewhat surprised at the outcome of the two games the baseball team had with Mississippi this last week-end. Although the Cats were defeated, the games were fairly even, and only a difference in experience decided the games. Many thought that sending a U. of K. baseball team out after such a short time for organization, and after a lay off of two years, would result in a terrific score for the opposition. The fact that the Cats almost held their own is gratifying.

We want to congratulate the team and "Pat" Devereaux for their work so far and hope that they will keep improving this season at the same rate they are going now. Next Saturday, the Eastern State Normal college nine will play the Wildcat team at Epping's park. Let's have a real turnout. The price of admission has not been decided but it will be announced in Friday's Kernel.

Last Thursday's football game brought to a close spring practice scrimmages. The way the teams went into action was certainly a revelation. It hardly seemed possible that these were the same group of boys that the newspapermen called the "Hitless Wonders," "Scoreless Wonders," "Punt and Pray" boys, and other cognomens descriptive of their offensive possibilities.

Coach Wynne has taught the boys a wide open offense that is a sure point getter. Although both teams were aware of the plays being used, the yardage gained was very impressive. On successive plays with Johnson and Pritchard carrying the ball, the White team made 70 yards for a touchdown. The ball-carrying abilities of Pritchard, Johnson, Faris, Jean, Kouns and Ayers will mean a lot next year. Able Ayers is still the best passer. Hay the best punter, and Rupert the best end. Walker looks like a first string quarterback.

The best men in the line were Jobe, Nevers, Potter, McClurg, Myers, Jones, Jackson and Long. Olah bears watching. He should come in for plenty of service next fall.

"Red" Parrish kept up his winning ways against Vanderbilt Saturday and took four firsts out of five to clinch a win for Kentucky. Coach "Bernie" Shively's track team seems headed to go places this year. The fact that they took 11 firsts and one tie out of 14 events shows capabilities that will be hard to surpass. The team is especially fortunate in having a man like Parrish for captain. His all-round ability is surpassed only by his quality as a leader and pacemaker for his mates.

Tennis will begin to function soon. Interest in tennis is improving. The tennis courts of the University have become so popular that the devotees of the sport cannot be accommodated. Several more courts should be built.

The tennis team has matches again this year with some of the top-notch schools in the country. Many of these schools have tennis as a major sport, while at the University it is a minor activity. If it were made a major sport here, the cost would be the same but the improvement would be enormous. More boys would come out for the sport and we would attract star prep school players. There are more boys out for tennis than for basketball and baseball, both of which are major sports.

Whereas, some major sports are only seasonal and the boys report during that period, tennis is a year-round sport. Starting in September they play outdoors for a position on the team. Then when the weather changes, they play during the winter months on the indoor courts. In the spring they come out on the outdoor courts and play for their final positions on the team. Practice is continued until school is out.

There is no other sport on the campus that takes up so much of the players' time. Tennis players are not subsidized or helped in any way. Making their reward a sweat-er with a major letter signifying that they participated in a major sport would be reward enough for them, and many outstanding men would join those who are already practicing on the courts here.

Commerce Seniors Distribute Booklets

"Bargains in Brains," the 1934 edition of a booklet issued by the senior class association of the Commerce college, was being distributed Saturday to prospective employers of the 1934 graduates of the College of Commerce.

"Forty-eight college men and women," the introduction sets forth, "take pleasure in submitting a sketch of themselves in this booklet. Perhaps you will find herein one or more of us who will be able to assist you in your particular kind of enterprise."

The booklet, divided into three divisions, accounting, business administration, and secretarial practice, carries pictures of senior students of the Commerce college and brief sketches of each, giving their training, business experience, address, weight, height, etc.

EXCHANGES

The University of California with 19,000 students has the largest full time enrollment in this country.

A petition circulated at Temple university to learn how many undergraduates read what they signed gained 500 signatures. At the bottom of the request for an extra holiday was: "We are resolved to spend the day in merry-making and leisure at which time each one will decapitate himself with extreme joy."

A new rule in the Intramural department at the University of Minnesota bars a fraternity from receiving any trophy if it has more than one minor forfeit.

The students of McGill university, Canada, have turned out in such numbers for ping-pong matches that the school has built a special bleacher section to accommodate all spectators.

VARSITY SQUAD PLAYS FOR RANKS

During the past week Coach Downing's net squad played for rankings for the first engagement of the season, which probably will be with Louisville this Saturday on the U. of K. courts. James Bishop will play No. 1 position as the result of having defeated Captain Yost in a hard-fought match.

The results of the matches for rankings are as follows: Bishop defeated Yost for No. 1; Jenkins defeated Brown for No. 3; Tulloch, after a close battle with Randall, gained the right to No. 5 position; Jimmie Moore will play No. 7, Elvis Stahr, No. 8, Weed, No. 9, and Rush, No. 10. These rankings are not permanent, for a member of the team may at any time challenge the man ranked just above him and if he defeats him, gain his position.

The team will make a southern trip next week, playing Sewanee, April 26, Cumberland University, April 27, and Vanderbilt, April 28. The freshman squad has not completed its ranking matches and the entire schedule has not been definitely arranged. These will be announced later.

Plants on Campus Point to Signs Of Spring Time

By JOHN D. DARNELL

Hundreds of plants and shrubs in the University's five gardens have shown, by their upshoots of green, the first signs of spring. These gardens will start their spring blooming before many days, and visitors to Lexington and all Kentuckians interested in the beauties of the University campus are urged to visit these spots of beauties.

The largest garden on the campus, the Kentucky botanical garden in the rear of White hall, is being planned and planted by the Lexington Garden club, the University, and over 25 nurseries from over the country. This garden, at present, comprises approximately two acres but several more acres are to be added later.

The garden at the side of White hall contains a beautiful plot of azaleas which were donated by the United States department of agriculture from the Bellingham, Maryland station. This garden is expected to bloom for the first time this year.

In the rear of the Art Center, there is a formal Spanish garden with flag walks and interesting developments in planting and growth.

The Derrill W. Hart dahlia garden, made possible by the gifts of Mr. Hart, alumnus of the University and a dahlia expert, contains hundreds of varieties and is known as the southern proving ground for dahlias. Another beauty spot on the University campus is the rock garden, which slopes down toward Memorial hall and covers the natural contours of the ground with a large number of fine native and Alpine plants collected by the late Dean F. Paul Anderson. Rhododendrons, evergreens, and azaleas are included in the variety of native plants which grow in this wooded spot, at the base of which is a beautiful pond with submerged lighting and fine species of water plants.
